A: My guess is that your host is determined to get rid of your gig, and wants to see you make an unfortunate mistake by hitting a code from more than one source. Make sure to not reuse any code provided on any site, and that you don't reuse any *.rar archive files. Depending on the size of the rar archive, it is very unlikely that you will succeed even with one try. It will be easier if you simply start from scratch, create the rar archive file of your own, and try again. E.g. In my case I was trying to use the PKG.EXE from here, as I found the previous SO answer was wrong (based on an outdated search phrase). As I didn't feel like trying the whole process for just one file, I downloaded the M2SOFT.RAR file and unpacked it. It contained two files: PKG.exe and PKG.ini. The latter was the one I used. FYI: You can always find out how to decompress a RAR archive by simply opening it
